

Company: Presco Polymers, L.P.
Position: EF Operations Manager
Reports To: Vice President of Operations
Date: Dec 2017
Employment Status: Full time, salaried exempt employee

Position Description

Responsible for the management of Presco's Engineered Films manufacturing facility. Position will provide leadership and skill toward a hands-on approach with employees, production processes and equipment.

Responsibilities

- Ensure that all workings are manufactured in a correct, cost effective and timely manner in alignment with specifications and quality requirements
- Implement and coordinate Presco's Operating Procedures and training programs for production personnel to promote best operational practices and improve safety.
- Contribute towards the achievement of company's strategic and operational objectives
- Perform quality controls and monitor production KPI's
- Help foster an environment of positive employee relations, empowerment and involvement
- Improve housekeeping and plant organization including plant layout
- Work with Supervisors to ensure employee relations are handled in a timely manner (24-48 hours)
- Improve efficiency by reducing set-up times and optimizing small production runs
- Assist front line leaders and operators in troubleshooting machine, tooling, and material problems
- Support the quality control initiatives of the division to ensure customer requirements are met
- Create and implement continuous improvement suggestions

Education Requirements

- Bachelors Degree – Production, Engineer, Manufacturing, Operations Management, Business or related field preferred.

Qualifications

- 8 years working knowledge and management experience in production, manufacturing or operations management, preferred.
- Experience in plastics processing, extrusion, calendaring, lamination, or cast films, preferred
- Relationship and leadership skills required.
- Customer-service driven – internal and external.
- Mechanical and technical skills, preferred.
- Strategic planning and analytical skills required.

Culture

Presco is a high-energy company that encourages employee involvement. We take our business seriously and we have fun doing it. Our manufacturing environment is informal, yet professional. Each customer is special and our employees are our number one asset. If this position description and company culture fit your interests, let us be your, "Last, Best Place to Work."

Competitive Salary and Benefits Package